

[LEGISLATION DRAFTING CHALLENGE 2014]

Daksh is a non-profit organization dedicated to the improvement of democratic governance in India.

This competition on Legislative Drafting is aimed at enhancing the understanding, application and interpretation of the law by students, by laying emphasis on the aspect of problem-solving as well as constitutional coherence. Through this competition, Daksh seeks to encourage students to engage efficiently with obstacles to good governance and to cultivate a more participative approach to political processes and democracy.

RULES

Teams of 3 from each college/ university, no cap on number of teams per institution
Proposed draft bills must be accompanied by a detailed explanatory note that must include the following:

- the need for the legislation along with the relevant evidence and statistics;
- the financial costs of the proposed changes;
- the details of the administrative machinery, if required;
- Why this legislation is the best solution to the need identified.

The last date for submission is January 10, 2015.
Submissions must be e-mailed to drafting@dakshindia.org.
Detailed Submission Guidelines are available at <http://www.dakshindia.org/>.

THEMES

- Use and Regulation of Electronic Surveillance in India
OR
- Use of Scientific Methods (i.e. Narco-Analysis, Brain Mapping) for collection of Evidence in criminal trials.
OR
- Prevention of Lavish Marriages in India

Politics. Perceptions. Participation.